

Sixth Grade Summer Reading

Last updated 5/22/18

All incoming sixth graders must read Holes by Louis Sachar. In addition, they must choose one book from each of the two following categories:

Category 1: Historical

Al Capone Does My Shirts

The Boys in the Boat (Young Readers Adaptation)

Call of the Wild

Catherine Called Birdy

Crispin: The Cross of Lead

Fever 1793

Roll of Thunder, Hear My Cry

Samurai Shortstop

Treasure Island

The Watsons Go to Birmingham – 1963

Gennifer Choldenko

Daniel James Brown

Jack London

Karen Cushman

Avi

Laurie Hals Anderson

Mildred D. Taylor

Alan G. Gratz

Robert Louis Stevenson

Christopher Paul Curtis

Category 2: Contemporary / Fantasy

Black Cauldron (or any from this series)

Chasing Redbird

The Ear, The Eye, and The Arm

Fablehaven (or any from this series)

Hoot

The Outcasts of 19 Schuyler Place

The Phantom Tollbooth

Phoenix Rising

The Schwa Was Here

Wonder

Lloyd Alexander

Sharon Creech

Nancy Farmer

Brandon Mull

Carl Hiaasen

E. L. Konigsburg

Norton Juster

Karen Hesse

Neal Shusterman

R. J. Palacio

St. Michael's Summer Book Report Requirements for Sixth Grade

Please include this form when you turn in your book report at the start of school.

June 2018

Student's Name _____

Book One (Title and Author): _____

Book Two (Title and Author): _____

Students entering Sixth Grade must read a total of three books. All students must read Holes, by Louis Sachar, which will be discussed during the first two weeks of school. Students must also choose one book from each of the two provided categories (Historical and Contemporary / Fantasy). Students must then complete a single project: an illustrated book jacket that incorporates information and reflections on all three books read. This book report is due in class on Friday, August 17, the first full day of school. Guidelines for the report are as follows:

Students must create a book jacket with a front cover, interior two-page spread, and back cover. The front and back cover pages are based on ONE of the two selected books they read (but NOT about Holes). The text written in the interior two-page spread compares and contrasts Holes to the OTHER book read by the student. The entire book jacket should be created from a single sheet of folded, white 8 1/2 x 11" paper (but elements may be pasted to this paper).

- The front cover must include title, author, and student's name, as well as one original color drawing of a significant scene in the book and one significant quote.
- The back cover must include a 10-15 sentence personal response to the book: how does this book compare to other books you've read in the same genre? how did the characters appeal to you? did you relate personally to any of the characters or events? why did or didn't you enjoy the book? This MUST be hand-written in ink and, of course, original!

The interior portion of the book jacket is designed as a three-paragraph essay and must be a total of 300-600 words. Students should use complete sentences, indent all paragraphs, and be sure to proofread their work before they turn it in. The report must be typed and printed in landscape orientation so it can be folded and attached into the interior of the book jacket. The purpose of this interior text is to allow the student to compare and contrast the two books that the student read that were NOT featured on the front and back cover pages. One of the two books discussed must be Holes. The specific requirements for each paragraph are as follows:

Paragraph One: Compare and contrast the key events of the two books, focusing on how the authors built suspense and tension, and how they designed creative resolutions (endings) to their respective novels.

Paragraph Two: Compare and contrast one or more protagonists (main characters) in each book. For example, how does the personality of Stanley, the main character in Holes, compare to the protagonist of the other book? How do their personalities shape the way the plots unfold?

Paragraph Three: Discuss a theme (such as courage, friendship, prejudice, or compassion) that both books have in common, and how specific moments in each book helped develop that theme.

See the back side of this handout for a sample layout of the project. Still confused? Please don't hesitate to contact Mr. Hawes (ahawes@stmichael.net) at any time!

PARENT VERIFICATION

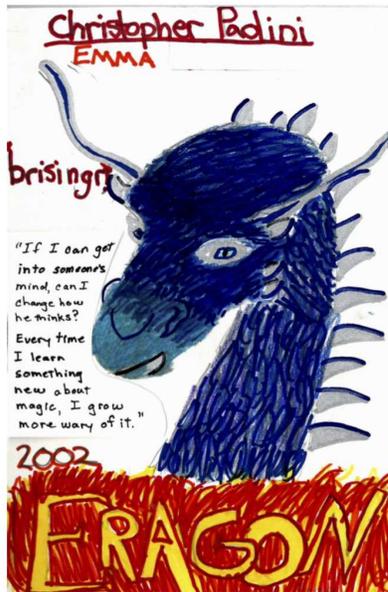

I verify that my child has read all three of these books and that this report represents the original work of my child. (Evidence of plagiarism will result in a zero on the report.)

Parent Signature

Date

BOOK JACKET SAMPLE: Middle School Summer Report

FRONT COVER:

BACK COVER:

Eragon finds a beautiful blue stone in the Spine that soon hatches into a dragon. From the very beginning he is puzzled by Saphira's (the dragon) appearance and by the stories that are spreading. It takes time, but Eragon comes to trust Saphira and his own abilities. This developing friendship that requires a great deal of trust, communication, and willingness to believe in one's ability is the main reason I liked the book. Evil creatures constantly harass them, but their friendship and the support of good people (or creatures) never waiver in their dedication to stopping evil. I will always want to believe that goodness will prevail.

I also enjoyed the book because of the description of the landscape and places. Paolini obviously loves the big open spaces of his home, and I could easily envision the mountains and valleys Eragon had to traverse while being chased by Urghals. Any book that includes a map in the opening pages is intriguing.

INTERIOR TWO-PAGE SPREAD:

Holes by Louis Sachar and McElligot's Pool by Dr. Seuss appear on the surface to discuss very different sorts of events. In Holes, the main character, Stanley Yelnats, has been sent to a juvenile-detention facility, Camp Green Lake, as punishment for supposedly stealing a pair of sneakers. In Dr. Seuss's picture book, a young boy is warned by a passing farmer that his attempts at hooking a fish from a small pond are foolhardy. Nonetheless, both authors develop a sense of mystery by offering readers hidden treasures: in the case of Holes, a literal treasure box buried by Kissin' Kate Barlow, and in the case of McElligot's Pool, the promise of an exotic, aquatic prize, such as a kangaroo fish, a checkerboard fish, or even a Thing-a-Ma-Jigger...

The unnamed hero of McElligot's Pool and young Stanley Yelnats both demonstrate fearlessness at times, although the young fisherman approaches life with far more optimism than Stanley, who begins the book despairing over a decades-old curse that, his family believes, dooms their dreams and clouds their consciences. Dr. Seuss's perky hero exudes sunny optimism when he proclaims, "And that's why I think / That I'm not such a fool / When I sit here and fish / In McElligot's Pool!" Meanwhile, Stanley wallows in self-doubt, especially when he first arrives at Camp Green Lake and discovers it is not the idyllic destination he has been promised: "This isn't a Girl Scout camp," said Mr. Sir...

Perseverance, the personal quality of grit and determination, stands at the core of each book. Stanley and Zero face desperate odds when fleeing camp and climbing up God's Thumb. The protagonist of McElligot's Pool is teased for even considering that he might catch a fish. Yet he perseveres, allowing his hook the opportunity to follow an underground channel under State Highway Two-Hundred-and-Three and Sneed's Hotel on its journey to the ocean.

The symbolism of holes permeates both works. A hole can represent failure or emptiness—the opposite of success and fulfillment. The campers continue to dig holes despite the likelihood they will never discover the hidden treasure, and the boy continues to sit patiently by the fishing hole...

Outside of a dog, a book is a man's best friend. Inside of a dog, it's too dark to read.

—Groucho Marx

The love, habit, and ease of reading can be actively nurtured both at home and at school. During summer -- a time when many students regress in their academic abilities -- families can encourage reading in many creative ways. Consider the ratio of "screen time" to "page time," perhaps making one contingent on the other. The public library runs summer reading programs and carries a near-endless supply of great selections. If you're looking for recommendations online, one place to start is here: <https://www.commonensemedia.org/lists/50-books-all-kids-should-read-before-theyre-12>

Sadly, only one in five 17-year-olds reads for pleasure. There are countless reasons to make reading a daily habit, especially for children. Here are the St. Michael's Language Arts Team's Top Ten:

- 1) SKILL: Reading volume (whether measured in pages or minutes) has been shown to be the single best predictor of reading proficiency and fluency, particularly through independent reading done outside school. Reading just about anything has value: novels, picture books, newspaper articles, cookbooks, instruction manuals, atlases, reference books. Just read!
- 2) EMPATHY: Reading rich literary fiction (rather than pop fiction or nonfiction) increases empathy, or the ability to "read" the feelings of others, according to an article in Science.
- 3) FOCUS: Literature trains brains -- including those of young children listening to bedtime books -- to attend patiently to the beginning, middle, and end of stories. One's patience and focus can be exercised and improved through practice and repetition, much like weight training. It's vital these days, with declining attention spans seen in people of all ages.
- 4) IMAGINATION: Not surprisingly, many of the most inspiring and successful writers are also voracious readers. As Stephen King has said, "Books are a uniquely portable magic."
- 5) VOCABULARY: Children's books introduce kids to 50 percent more words than television. A child who reads 10 minutes per day reads about 650,000 words per year; a child who reads 60 minutes a day encounters about 4 million words, according to Reading Research Quarterly. The novel Little Women alone has more vocabulary than three years' worth of basal readers!
- 6) KNOWLEDGE: Even the most breezy of summer books can teach kids about history, science, geography, sports, the arts, and more, while igniting readers' curiosity about the world. Stock your shelves, for children with access to large numbers of books at home receive the equivalent of three extra years of schooling by the time they graduate, according to reading expert Richard Allington.
- 7) ACHIEVEMENT: Starting at a very early age, routine reading leads to academic success across the curriculum, even in areas not associated with reading comprehension.
- 8) RELAXATION: According to the University of Sussex, reading relieves stress even better than music, taking a walk, or sipping tea or coffee. Screen time at night has the opposite effect.
- 9) MEMORY: Brainy hobbies like reading can stave off memory loss or even Alzheimer's. Subjects in a study published in Brain Connectivity displayed heightened neural connectivity in two regions of the brain even five days after completing a novel.
- 10) JOY: No studies need be cited. A love of reading is not just a means but an end unto itself!

-St. Michael's Language Arts Department